International Order of King's Daughters—The first state convention to be held to-morrow and Thursday in New Haven—The Program.

To-morrow and Thursday, the first state convention of the international order of the King's Daughters and Sons will be held in the Second Congregational church in Fair Haven East, of which Rev. D. M. James is pastor. His wife is the state secretary. In the absence of an accepted basis of representation, the rule prevailing elsewhere in the order will be followed. Under this rule, each circle is entitled to one voting delegate for each ten minutes or fraction of ten it more than one-half. Thus a circle of twenty-six members would send three, and one of twenty-five members, two voting delegates. A circle of less than ten members is entitled to one voting delegate. Leaders are considered ex-officio voting delegates. A circle having ten members will thus have two votes in the convention.

The circles at New Haven will proffer their hospitality to all delegates bearing credentials. It is important that the names and addresses of delegates be sent as soon as possible to Mrs. Frances Foster, 13 Home Place. It is desired that there will be a general attendance of members of the order outside of those chosen as voting delegates.

The program of the convention is as follows: Wednesday—2:30—Devotional exercises. Organization. Election of recording secretary. Appointment of committees. 3:00—Reports: Middlesex county, Mrs. L. M. Behrens; Hartford county, Mrs. I. E. Forbes; New Haven, Miss Jennie Messer. Report of circles. General discussion. 4:00—Address, "The Order of the Nobility," Mrs. Margaret Bottoms, president of the order. 5:00—Miscellaneous business. Adjournment. 6:30—Collation served in the chapel by the New Haven circles. Wednesday evening—7:30—Devotional exercises. Address of state secretary, Mrs. D. Melancthon James. Music, solo, "Not Ashamed of Christ," Miss Emma McDonald. 8:00—Address by Mrs. Isabella Charles Davis, corresponding secretary of the order. Collection. Music and adjournment.

Thursday morning—9:30—Consecration service, led by Mrs. Isabella Charles Davis. Report of committees. Election of state secretary. Place of next meeting. Miscellaneous business. General discussion of the work of the order. 10:30—Address by Mrs. Isabella Charles Davis. Reading of minutes. 12:00—Adjournment.

PERSONAL JOTTINGS.

Mr. C. P. Jordan of West Haven, for many years a prominent clothing merchant of this city, and now with the Leigh clothing store, has returned from a very pleasant trip to Boston and to Nashua, N. H. Mr. Jordan had the great pleasure of meeting again in Boston his only brother, John B. Jordan of Ellsworth, Me., now seventy-three years of age, and still hale and hearty; and also of meeting his nephew, Seth P. Jordan, who was for four years with the former C. P. Jordan store in this city. The nephew is also a resident of Ellsworth, Me. From Boston Mr. Jordan went on to Nashua, N. H., where in his younger days he resided for ten years. Here he met a host of old friends and spent a few days delightfully renewing old friendships, and in company with his old friend, General C. W. Stevens, at present state senator, he renewed acquaintance with old familiar scenes in and about Nashua, taking in the sights from the senator's private carriage and behind the senator's handsome horses. A number of other old friends of thirty years ago were revisited to the mutual delight of all concerned.

Arthur J. Sloane of this city has resigned his position as assistant city editor of the Waterbury Republican and will re-enter the Yale medical school at once.

Ex-Secretary John Pohlman has fitted up in the Ninth ward a fine hotel. It is located at 146 Dixwell avenue and is a credit as a big enterprise in the growing ward.

Attorney David Strouse has gone to Denver, Col., for a few weeks' rest. Mrs. E. L. Nettleton gave the last of her delightful course of five readings yesterday afternoon. She read selections from Edgar Allan Poe and Will Carleton. Mrs. Nettleton has succeeded in pleasing her audience immensely at these readings and the ladies regret they are so soon finished.

Fears for the Lord Brassey. Port Townsend, Wash., Nov. 18.—If the ship Lord Brassey, now over 100 days out from Shanghai, has not foundered at sea, and arrives in port, she will be seized by the British consul and forfeiture proceedings instituted by the British government.

In the official documents received from the customs department of Shanghai it is alleged that Captain Gunning obtained his custom house clearance by fraud.

Clearance was refused, pending the proper shipment of mates, and then it is charged he secured the temporary services of two men, who impersonated the first and second officers respectively, and hoodwinked the collector of customs into granting customs clearances.

Before leaving the harbor of Shanghai he sent the two acting mates ashore, and went to sea with a crew of green sailors and no officers, clearing for Neah Bay, an obscure Indian village near Cape Flattery.

Under the British admiralty law the vessel is subject to seizure and confiscation. The United States government will also have a big claim on the ship for clearing without a bill of health from the American consul.

Ten days after the ship left Shanghai a strong typhoon was experienced in the China seas, and the subsequent sighting of ship's wreckage leads to the opinion that the Lord Brassey foundered with all hands.

She was one of the finest vessels on the Pacific Ocean, valued at over $150,000.

Concert in Hamden.

The fight lasted six hours and the rebels were finally dispersed, leaving sixty dead on the field, together with a large number of wounded. Artillery played a very important part in the battle. The government lost two killed and four wounded.

Young Men Fought a Duel. Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 18.—A duel was fought Saturday at Whitehall, a small hamlet west of this city, between Sam Neill and Thomas Williams, two highly respected young men, over the affections of a well known young lady. Her Skull Was Crushed. Springfield, Mass., Nov. 18.—The woman killed early this morning near Hinsdale was Mrs. William Mars, Pittsfield. She was partly demented. She wandered away Sunday while the family was at mass and took the turnpike over the mountains to the Boston and Albany tracks, where she turned back toward Pittsfield. She was struck by an express and killed instantly, her skull being crushed and her left leg severed.

Wedding in Woodbridge. The Congregational church in Woodbridge was the scene of a pretty wedding on the evening of Thursday, November 14, and was well filled, despite the unfavorable weather. The happy couple were Charles Ephraim Peck and Miss Edith Heloise, eldest daughter of Charles P. Augur, both well known and popular young people in Woodbridge.

WEST HAVEN NOTES.

A Special Town Meeting To-morrow Evening—One of the Borough Roads to be Improved Under the Terms of the New State Law.

West Haven holds a special town meeting at the town hall to-morrow evening to take action on the question of improvements of public roads as provided by legislative enactment and to designate the section of road to be improved and the sum of money to be expended for that object.

The meeting will also vote upon the question of buying a road roller for the use of the towns on the highways. The Times, a local paper, advocates the place of road to receive attention under the terms of the new law should be that on Main street fronting the town hall, and on Campbell avenue alongside the borough's only public building, this being a much traveled and conspicuous location. If this section could not receive attention legally and the work must be done on town roads exclusively, then the paper advocates that the work of improvement be done on that part of Kimberly avenue between the two bridges, this point being traveled over more than any other section of road in the town and being the hardest to keep in repair. Later the same paper finds as to the proposed road improvement that a borough road is eligible under the law to receive attention and the selectmen have accordingly authorized the selectmen to do the work within the borough limits.

To-morrow evening the West Haven Hook and Ladder Co. will give a masquerade soiree at their headquarters on Second avenue. It will be the first public affair given in their new house.

C. P. Jordan, whose chicken farm on First avenue is one of the interesting sights of the borough, has lost one of his three pretty college dogs. They were general favorites and very intelligent, and well behaved, and had a fine home. But one day two of them in a frolicsome mood wandered away, and only one returned. The other, a black and tan, with white breast is yet a wanderer. It is believed that some kind friend will discover him and send him back to his home.

A WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

J. W. Hopper celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his marriage at his residence, "The Rusland," corner of Washington avenue and Noble street, West Haven, Saturday afternoon and evening, November 16. Many guests were present from New York, Philadelphia, Newark, N. J., Westfield, N. J., New Haven and West Haven. They received a great many beautiful and costly presents. A bountiful dinner was served from 3 to 10 p. m. and the evening was spent very pleasantly with singing, games, dancing, etc. Mr. Townley of Westfield rendered some fine solos. Mr. Charles Mooney of Newark and B. J. Dyas of New Haven both read an original poem suitable for the occasion. The grounds and house were handsomely decorated with plants, chrysanthemums, flags and Chinese lanterns, which were lit at night and made a pretty effect. Mr. and Mrs. Hopper received a great many congratulations by mail during the day.

Packard, D. D., of the Plymouth church. At 12:35 the bridal party left for New York and Washington. Mr. and Mrs. Hildreth will reside in New Haven. The groom is a sterling young business man and the bride is well and favorably known here.

WILL REPRESENT A VILLAGE.

St. Mary's Fair to Excel Any Similar Church Fair Given in This State. The fair of St. Mary's church, which will open at the Second regiment armory on Friday evening and continue for nine consecutive days, will eclipse any similar church fair ever given in this state. The executive committee has arranged for a most beautiful decoration of the armory interior.

The east end of the hall will represent a mountain side, giving the booths and the floor of the armory the appearance of a market place. And it will truly make a most picturesque market place for there are to be sixteen booths arranged around the sides of the armory, all tastefully decorated and occupied by bevy of pretty maidens, each charmingly costumed and graciously attentive.

One of the principal booths will be that which will be occupied by the members of the junior choir. This is to be the refreshment booth and is to be conducted as a first class restaurant, at which one will be served with tempting edibles. On the opening night, Friday night, the attendants will serve clam chowder, and on the other nights following chicken and turkey will be served cooked in the various ways. The booth will be in charge of Miss Mary Daly, who will have for chief assistants Miss Amy Dunn and Miss Lottie Grimes. Others who will be in attendance are the Misses Julia Quigley, Kathleen Lynch, Lizzie Dunn, Annie McManus, May Mahoney, Annie Dunlea, Kate Dunlea, May Smith, Mayne Murphy, Anna Murphy, Lizzie Clancy, Margaret and Alice Shannon, Tessie and Mollie Harrigan, Annie Setry, Kittie Frawley, Minnie Corcoran, Chrissy Daly, Kittie Quigley and Nellie Lynch.

ST. FRANCIS ORPHAN ASYLUM.

Announcement for Donation Day, Next Thursday, November 21. St. Francis' Orphan Asylum, New Haven, Conn., Nov. 18, 1895.

The undersigned officers and committees having charge of the collections of donations for the above named asylum have issued the following appeal to the people of New Haven:

Addressing ourselves not to strangers, but to kindly disposed friends, we again invite our fellow citizens to lend us a helping hand on our orphan donation day, Thursday, November 21. No elaborate appeal in behalf of St. Francis' orphans has ever been needed. The cause of the fatherless and motherless has always appealed eloquently to the heart and the benevolence of the public; and contributions are given so heartily and so ungrudgingly as the little ones who by reason of their condition are unable to help themselves.

For the past few years no recourse has been had to fairs, lectures, concerts or other entertainments as a means for benefiting the orphanage; the majority of our Catholic people are poor, and except on donation day the asylum receives but very little in charity.

As the city grows the orphan population increases, and when poor families have want starving them in the face many of their offspring are protected by the asylum.

The current expenses of the house since last donation day have reached the sum of $20,000, and during the same period upwards of $40,000 addition have been disbursed for the erection and furnishing of its new addition.

This money, $60,000 at least, has been expended the past year in this town; and while the contracts and purchases have been made wherever it has been for the best advantage of the orphans, our local builders, merchants and employees have had the full benefit of the asylum trade. The mites, therefore, of the many contributed to our homeless children are sure to help in no small way the business activities of this community.

The poor, too, whom we have always with us, are greatly helped by the asylum. Witness the cases where a man losing his wife and compelled to go out to his work cannot possibly look after his little ones, and must place them in an asylum. Think of the widows who cannot carry their children to the place where they work, nor leave them safely behind at home. To the relief of many such surviving parents, when found worthy and not ranked as heartless, the asylum has come, by taking their weaklings under its care.

St. Francis' asylum, then, is not only doing a great work for its 300 inmates, but its influence for good is beneficial in more ways than one.

With the interest to pay on a new debt of $35,000 and supplies of food and clothes for its larger family, the orphanage's heavy monthly outlay must necessarily call for needed funds.

In previous years the public, without distinction of religion, have been more than generous, and the help met with in the past warrants us in believing that the donations this year shall not fall off, but rather increase, to meet during the coming winter the pressing needs of this worthy home charity.

Each Catholic parish of New Haven has its own donation committee for the collection of contributions from parishioners, and the central committee will look after the gifts from the business portion of the city.

Persons willing to contribute and not likely to be called up, or expecting to be out of town on that day, are earnestly requested to place their offerings with any subscriber of this appeal, or remit the same direct to the treasurer at the asylum.

The names of the collectors, many of whom for years have lent their valuable services to the cause of the orphans, who are to devote Thursday to the same noble object, are here appended:

Officers—President, William Keane; vice president, Edward McGowan; secretary, Hugh I. Finnigan; assistant secretary, Eugene McKenna; treasurer, Rev. J. P. Corcoran; assistant treasurer, E. E. Lynch.

THAT HORRID HABIT.

In passing one of our public schools not long since a group of boys was seen indulging in a disgusting pastime—namely, that of seeing who was the best fellow, and that onerous position was to be filled by the boy who could "spit" the farthest. One often sees the small boy in his first knickerbockers, strutting along with his hands in his pockets, and every now and then exhorting—trying apparently to do it in a nonchalant manner just as "papa" or "uncle" or "brother" does. Now, just here comes the question—why is it necessary for papa, uncle or brother to exhortate any more than mamma, auntie or sister? One very rarely sees a woman indulge in that form of pleasure, and such it seems to be to a number of men who apparently are employed by "Streetwalker & Doolittle." Some one says, "Oh! men chew tobacco, and it is necessary." Why "necessary" to make one long large cuspidor of the streets of New Haven. If men will chew tobacco they should be willing to step to the curbstone to exhortate, and those who have catarrhal troubles more than all others should do likewise.

In the light of science we know that such polluted sidewalks are a menace to health, and something ought to be done about it.

Beginning in the beginning the boy in school should be taught that it is far from manly to "spit" for fun. I venture to say that some of the parents ("gentle born") were told that their sons and heirs were doing that "horrid" thing for pastime they would hold up their hands in horror, and no doubt would reply—"Oh! my boy never does that; he is too refined." or "I will ask him; Freddie, did you ever do so and so?" "No, mamma." "There—There—I knew it; my boy has never told me a lie." The boy is father to the man every time, and if the boy thinks it "smart" to make a nuisance of himself in this particular way, by the time he is a man it will be a confirmed habit.

Physicians should impress upon the minds of their patients the importance of attending to troublesome throats, heads, lungs, etc., in the privacy of their own homes, where it can be done thoroughly and so that the public at large will not have their stomachs rise in rebellion. If a law could be passed compelling everyone to go to the curbstone to exhortate it is more than likely that they would do it only when absolutely necessary. At night and morning, or at night only the gutters could be flushed from the hydrant, thus carrying off a great deal of filth.

In the electric cars of a city in central New York there are signs reading like this: "Gentlemen do not spit on the floor; others must not."

A conductor on the Winchester avenue car line was seen to speak to a passenger, telling him to stop spitting or leave the car. Now that conductor should be presented with a gold medal. Pardon the unpleasantness of this subject, but it needs the attention of the city fathers.

His Latest Effort Failed.

Washington, Nov. 18.—The latest effort of Theodore Lambert, the convicted murderer of Camden county, N. J., to escape the execution of the death sentence imposed upon him, has failed. In an opinion read to-day by Chief Justice Fuller, the supreme court of the United States has affirmed the refusal of the United States court for third circuit to release him from the custody of the state.

PINEOLA COUGH BALSAM.

Is excellent for all throat inflammations and for asthma. Consumptives will invariably derive benefit from its use, as it quickly cures the cough, renders expectoration easy, soothes the inflamed membrane, restores wasted tissues. There is a large percentage of those who suppose their cases to be consumption who are only suffering from a chronic cold or deep seated cough, often aggravated by catarrh. For catarrh use Ely's Cream Balm. Both remedies are pleasant to use. Cream Pain Balm per bottle. Pineola Balsam 50c. at drugists. In quantities of $5.00 will deliver on receipt of amount. ELY BROTHERS, 54 Fulton St., New York.
